Lehramt (alt): G2-Übung	BA HF (alt): Basismodul Sprachwissenschaft (Pr.Nr. 1240)	BA NF (alt): Modul 3: Sprachwissenschaft (Pr.Nr. 3220) "English Grammar"

Zeljka CARUSO*DI 11.30 – 13.00*11.42

This course deepens the syntactic analysis of English sentences as introduced in the course 'Introduction to Linguistics'. We will proceed through the different levels of description:

- the functional level like subject, object, etc.
- the thematic level like agent, theme, etc.
- the formal level: from word classes and phrasal categories to complete tree structures, and thereby we will deal with various syntactic phenomena, both on the phrasal and on the sentential level. The seminar has a strong practical focus; the students will learn to apply syntactic argumentation themselves.

Silke FISCHER*DI 11.30 – 13.00*17.23

In this course we will see how morphological theory rules out words like **dethroneless*, **Canadas goose* (plural), or **arrivable*. In short, we will discuss morphological principles that regulate word formation processes like derivation, compounding, and inflection. Moreover, we will take a look at the basic properties of Distributed Morphology, a recent morphological theory.

- (1) *It seems syntax to be fascinating
- (2) *It is reluctant that Martin will do syntax.
- (3) *Who do you think that will pass the test?
- (4) *How do you wonder what we will discuss?

In short, we will discuss all kinds of movement phenomena, control theory, and empty categories. Moreover, we will be concerned with binding, theta and Case theory. Good basic knowledge of syntax is obligatory.

English varies greatly both within the British Isles and across the world. The course takes a closer look at the different causes for variation within English, taking geographical, sociological and historical aspects into consideration. Different case studies on varieties of English from all over the world will be presented in more detail, based on classical readings in the field of English dialectology in the widest sense. The focus is on phonological variation.

English is rich in derivational morphology which may or may not induce segmental and suprasegmental changes. The course investigates the complex relations between phonological and morphological rules in English and their consequences for a model of grammar. The focus lies on the theory of Lexical Phonology.

Artemis ALEXIADOU*DI 11.30 – 13.00*17.12

While Tense and Aspect both provide temporal information, they are distinct concepts. In this course we will investigate the properties and use of the aspectual and tense system of English in comparison to other languages. The focus of this class will be on the classification of aspectual verb classes, and various (recent) theoretical approaches to this topic will be discussed.

Second Language Acquisition is the process by which people learn a second language in addition to their native language(s). In this course we will be concerned with the differences between first and second language acquisition as well as with the different approaches to second language acquisition.

Binding Theory

Giorgos SPATHAS*DO 15.45 – 17.15*11.62*und
Florian SCHÄFER

Binding theory is concerned with the distribution of nominal phrases like definite descriptions (the boy), proper names (John), pronouns (he, she, him, her) and anaphors (himself, herself, each other).

From introductory classes, students should be familiar with the Binding Principles A, B and C which regulate the possible distributions of these elements as shown in the examples below.

1. John(i) likes himself(i)/*him(i)
2. John(i) thinks that Mary likes *himself(i)/him(i)
3. *He(i) thinks that Mary likes John(i)

In this class, we will read (i) papers that further develop the insight from the classical Principles A, B and C and (ii) papers which use the insights about Binding Phenomena to investigate other aspects of syntactic theory.

Old English

Credits: 7	Requirements: t. b. a.	BA-Leistungspunkte Anglistik: 6
Lehramt (alt): Hauptseminar	BA HF: Hauptseminar Sprachwissenschaft (Pr.Nr. 3300)

Susanne LOHRMANN*DI 09.45 – 11.15*17.12

The main goal of this course is to discuss the differences between Old English and Present Day English, and to understand how (and maybe why) the language changed to such an extent. Next to investigating phonological, morphological, and, in particular, syntactic changes we will translate and analyse some Old English text passages. We will also discuss some recent papers, in particular regarding the grammar of Old English.

DO 11.30 – 13.00

17.72

Our main focus in this course will be to practice speaking and presentation skills. Relying on the practical strategies from Dianna Booher's guides, Speak with Confidence: Powerful Presentations that Inform, Inspire and Persuade and Communicate with Confidence: How to Say it Right the First Time, we will web your speaking acumen to your understanding of literature.

Our literary focus will be on the elegy—a poem of mourning—since it is central to the history of the lyric poem in the 20th-century; the elegiac form permeates a wide range of poems about war, love, race, gender, and family. Your reading of poems from poets of varied backgrounds—British, Irish, Caribbean, and American—will be the basis for your prepared and impromptu presentations.

Required Texts: A course packet will be available on ILIAS and in the IB.

Lehramt (alt): Sprachpraktische Übung im Hauptstudium

Amanda KAHRSCHE

DO 14.00 – 15.30

17.24

This course is about grammar: teaching it and using it. We will first spend roughly the first third of the course discussing teaching methods and evaluating lesson plans for use in a school setting. The remainder of the course will be made up of teaching sessions in which the students will teach a grammar topic. Grades will be determined based on the students' performance in the teaching session and on two sets of lesson plans.

Important: This course is for Lehramt students under the old Prüfungsordnung only! Because of the nature of the course, the size of the class will be strictly limited to 20 students. Anyone taking the course must teach; in other words, no one may take this class as an observer. All must participate.

Registration will take place on ILIAS, in the same way and at the same time as the other Sprachpraktische Übungen.

All the Business English classes will begin in the second week of the semester (the week of 22 October 2012). Please note that the above time slot is a bit different from the usual class times.

For this course, BA students will have priority, as they are the only ones who must take the course. If you are a Hohenheim student or a Lehramt student, you must be prepared to give up your place in this course to a Bachelor student.

Course materials: students will be able to download and print off a reader on ILIAS. More information to follow.
